Mission Statement

The Ball State University Museum of Art cultivates lifelong learning and recreation in the visual arts through its collection of original works of art, engaging exhibitions, and educational programs for the university community and other diverse audiences.

As adopted by the
Ball State University Board of Trustees
December 19, 2008

MANAGEMENT AND PLANNING AND FUNDRAISING

The Museum of Art submitted documents to the Accreditation Committee of the American Association of Museums at the end of December 2008. Accredited since 1972, this is the fourth time that BSUMA has had its mandates, professional policies, and operations reviewed. Among the first American museums to be accredited, BSUMA remains among an elite number of exemplary institutions so designated. A committee of peer reviewers visited the museum in April. Their report will be reviewed by the Accreditation Commission of the American Association of Museums in July 2010.

Capital Fund Projects

After years of planning, renovations to replace lighting systems in the Sculpture Court commenced in May and anticipate completion in July 2010.

Renovations to convert the Brown Study Room into a smart classroom and install new lighting systems commenced in May. The Brown Study Room, formerly a student lounge, is now used intensively for a variety of purposes; foremost among them is as a gallery for works of art on paper. It is also used presently as an orientation gallery for group visits, classroom, and occasionally for lectures and other special events. We anticipate completion of renovations in mid-August 2010.

Fundraising: Capital Campaign for Expansion

The Museum's $5M campaign, part of the Ball State Bold campaign, has made good progress in achieving funds to expand the museum into the east and west wings on the second floor of the Fine Arts Building that will add 7,000 square feet of exhibition space for collections of ethnographic art and Asian art. The campaign was announced in April 2008. At the end of June 2010, the fund totaled $3,551,000. We were delighted to dedicate the Decorative Arts Gallery in honor of John J and Angeline R. Pruis as part of the Campaign for the Museum of Art. The George and Frances Ball Foundation made a $100,000 gift in honor of Dr. Pruis, their retiring executive director who had served Ball State as its President from 1968 to 1978.

EDUCATION AND OUTREACH

DIDO Project (Digital Images Delivered Online) Phase III

This major museum initiative to make the collection accessible, called the DIDO Project, is now in its fifth year. Phase III will explore mechanisms to take the collection to school age audiences. To this end, BSUMA secured a $150,000 grant from the federally funded Institute for Museum and Library Service for continuation of DIDO (Digital Images Delivered Online).

This phase is called Look to Learn, and will pursue a three year longitudinal study of the effectiveness of Visual Thinking Strategies in teaching critical thinking skills in a language arts curriculum with partners in BSU's Teachers College and Burris Laboratory School. The administrative start-up aspects of the project were accomplished in spring 2010 and the practical classroom applications were begun in late spring.

Programs and Special Events

- Forty-eight programs offered comprised of tours, films, performances, films, family days, and more.
- New program called "Tour Time: Introducing the Ball State University Museum of Art" developed and offered at the start of 2010 to highlight the development of the collection
- Pilot program called "Mirth in the Museum" offered during summer 2010 incorporating laughter yoga with viewing and discussion of humor in art
- Dr. Sarah Burns of Indiana University, speaker for Petty Memorial Lecture, presented "Winslow Homer's Nervous Nostalgia in the 1870s"
- [Group visits comprised of tours, self-guided, and collection viewing data forthcoming]

Training and Development

- Educator workshop offered in collaboration with the Indiana Humanities Council, BSU Department of History, MITS, and Muncie Public Library, attended by 40 participants
- Presented “Using the BSU Museum of Art as a Resource” to BSU faculty and staff with BSU Training and Development
- Presented “Using the BSU Museum of Art as a Resource” to 200 pre-service teachers/students in 11 AED 200 classes
- On-site career training with three interns, one undergraduate fellow, and one independent study student for credit, plus one Career Center Program

Outreach

- Established an Educator Advisory Group with representation from BSU, Muncie Community Schools, and Delaware County schools
- Conducted outreach at Muncie Black Expo Summer Celebration in Heekin Park, Muncie
- Conducted outreach at Festival on the Green with the Muncie Arts and Culture Council

A Matter of Size

May 16-September 6, 2009

Special Exhibition Galleries I and II

Organized by Carl Schafer and Tania Said for BSUMA

Forty-three works of art were assembled from the collection to investigate the ideas of size and scale, from a group of tiny African copper alloy figurines found in a grave cache, to a twenty foot long tapestry designed by 20th century French artist Jean Lurçat. This exhibition brings to the fore the British sculptor Henry Moore's maxim, "For every work of art there is a proper size." Moore's model for his Family Group of 1949, five inches high, is contrasted with a photograph of the final monumental version, five feet high.

Jerald Jacquard's Creative Process: Sculpture Projects

September 18 through December 13, 2009

Special Exhibition Galleries I and II

Organized by Peter Blume for BSUMA

An exhibition of twenty-nine small sculpture and maquettes, three paintings and twenty-four drawings by the recently retired head of sculpture at the School of Art, Indiana University explored Jacquard's ability to move from a drawing to a model to a monumental sculpture with little variation from the well conceived original idea.

A Couple of Ways of Doing Something:
Photographs by Chuck Close, Poems by Bob Holman
Special Exhibition Galleries I, II, and III
Jan 15 – Mar 14, 2010
Organized by and circulated by Aperture, Inc

The venue at Ball State made possible by support from the College of Fine Arts through Arts Alive.

This exhibition contains fifteen daguerreotypes, twenty digital pigment prints, six jacquard woven tapestries, and two photogravures made by Chuck Close and twenty accompanying poems by Bob Holman. The subjects of the photographs, many of the same artist-friends who have made regular appearances in his paintings over the years, include Laurie Anderson, Philip Glass, Bob Holman, Andres Serrano, Cindy Sherman, James Siena, Lorna Simpson, Gregory Crewdson, Carroll Dunham, Elizabeth Murray, Kiki Smith to name a few. Lyrical praise poems by Bob Holman, a celebrated New York School poet, were commissioned to accompany each photograph. The poems are concise, witty, and beautifully typeset to reflect the personality and style of each person portrayed. Chuck Close is a renowned American painter, printmaker, and photographer. His 1998 traveling retrospective was organized by the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Photorealism

Brown Study Room

January 15 through April 30, 2010

Organized by P. Blume for BSUMA

This selection of nineteen images from the collection included the ten published for the 1972 Documenta, Kassel, Germany, where photorealism was presented to an international audience on a large scale for the first time. The collection of this material at Ball State numbers sixty-eight prints, drawings, watercolors and several small paintings by artists identified with the reintroduction of photographically literal values in their work. Richard Estes (b.1932) is represented in the collection with his silkscreen Grants, acquired just prior to the exhibition. The exhibition was mounted to coincide with the one-artist show of recent work by Chuck Close.

American Tonalist Paintings in the Collection, 1880-1920

Special Exhibition Galleries I and II

May 21 through June 27, 2010

Tonalism was an American art movement that originated at the same time as impressionism, about 1880. Tonalist pictures are landscapes, usually without people, characterized by a single dominant color, depicted through a veil of atmosphere as at dawn or dusk. Rather than paintings of description, they are paintings of poetic evocation. These thirty-one paintings by the leaders of the Tonalist school of American painters came to the museum mainly in 1995 through the Ball Brothers Foundation and the George and Frances Ball Foundation. This exhibition was mounted partly to study these paintings and assess their condition as well as the public response to them.

Notable Acquisitions

This past year, nineteen works of art were added to the collection by purchase (8) and gift (11). In addition the museum received 108 works of art on long term loan from David T. Owsley which greatly enhance many areas of the collection.
