

Diego Reed (He/Him), born in Olympia, Washington, raised in Belleville, Illinois, is currently completing his BFA in Acting and his minor for New Works for the Stage at Ball State University, where he has gained a deep knowledge in movement, voice, and ensemble work. He has learned how to use these tools and techniques to become not only a grounded actor, but an effective communicator and listener in collaborative spaces.

Diego feels in love with absurdist and comedic work throughout his training, and has learned that the most powerful art can both comfort and disturb us. He hopes that his work and stories will help audiences self-reflect, and to lead with kindness throughout their day to day lives.

Diego has also had the great honor to learn improv on Reflex Improv (4 years) and on Absolunacy! (1 year), and plans to pursue stand up, sketch, and improv comedy at a professional level. Diego hopes to work with other professional actors and comedians to make the world and more thoughtful and humorous place, one joke at a time.
