

Lexi Conejo (she/her) is an actor, singer, and dancer from Wheeling, Illinois, currently earning a BFA in Musical Theatre from Ball State University and a minor in Spanish. She takes immense pride in being a POC artist with a Hispanic background, emanating culture and diversity in her work.

Lexi is also currently completing a Pilates Teacher Training program through BASI Pilates to earn her instructor certification by the summer of next year. Her passion for pilates is constantly growing as it promotes a healthy and sustainable way of fitness that provides nourishment for the body, mind, and soul.

When not on stage or in a studio, Lexi is likely seen with an iced coffee in hand and a book on the docket, having recently developed a love for memoirs of her favorite TV and stage actors. Recent reads include The Third Gilmore Girl by Kelly Bishop and BossyPants by Tina Fey. She is a lover of SNL, finding joy in the making of comedy and hoping to one day be behind the magic of the iconic TV series, however possible.

She wishes for her love and passion for theatre to activate change and ignite conversation among a widespread audience, encouraging compassion and kindness to be at the forefront of all art and helping to instill such values in humanity as a whole.