

Emma Yee is a senior at Ball State University, pursuing a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Musical Theatre with a minor in Communications. Originally from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, Emma's passion for the stage began at the age of three when she discovered ballet. A proud Asian woman and advocate for diversity in the arts, she brings a global perspective and deep commitment to inclusive storytelling.

Her adventurous spirit led her to the Midwest to expand her artistic horizons and immerse herself in new creative experiences. At Ball State, she has performed in Kinky Boots, danced in numerous productions, including The Nutcracker, and understudied the role of Beth in Little Women.

Beyond the stage, Emma is an active leader in the campus community. She serves as president of Artists for Inclusivity, represents her peers on the Department of Theatre & Dance Student Advisory Committee, and was the 2024 coordinator of the Class of 2025 Chicago Showcase.
